As many parts of the country continue to dig out from massive amounts of snow, parents and caregivers may need to turn toward on-line options for last minute shopping.

If you've been following this column for the last several weeks there have been a variety of items that have been researched for quality and value – everything from music Cd's and video DVDs to cameras and dolls.

This final installment highlights additional choices for children's entertainment, covering a wide variety of options as well as price ranges.

As always, you are the best single judge in choosing your child's entertainment.
